

---

www.governmentontheweb.co.uk

PROGRESS IN IMPLEMENTING E-GOVERNMENT IN BRITAIN:

SUPPORTING EVIDENCE FOR THE NATIONAL AUDIT OFFICE REPORT
GOVERNMENT ON THE WEB II

Patrick Dunleavy, Helen Margetts, Simon Bastow, Ruth Callaghan, and Hala Yared

The research reported here was commissioned by the National Audit Office as part of the Government on the Web II report (London: The Stationary Office, 25 April 2002), HC xxx, 2001-2 Session. Additional funding to cover the production and dissemination of Progress in Implementing e-Government in Britain was provided by Deloitte Touche, plc.

© 2002 Patrick Dunleavy and Helen Margetts

Published: LSE Public Policy Group and School of Public Policy, UCL
Contact: LSE Public Policy Group, London School of Economics, Houghton Street, LONDON WC2A 2AE, England.

---

This report, plus the full NAO report Government on the Web II and a range of other materials are available for free download on the joint website run by LSE Public Policy Group and the School of Public Policy at:
www.GovernmentOnTheWeb.org

---

LSE Public Policy Group is a consortium of London School of Economics academic staff undertaking applied policy research and consultancy, mainly for government and public sector bodies. It works closely with Enterprise LSE, the School's consultancy arm.

Contact: lse-ppg@lse.ac.uk

Web site: www.lse.ac.uk/ppg/

The School of Public Policy, UCL is the research and teaching arm of University College London in the field of public policy. It runs post-graduate courses in public policy, and undertakes research and consultancy in the field.

Contact: spp@ucl.ac.uk

Web site: www.ucl.ac.uk/spp/

---

The research team involved in the Government on the Web II report were:

Patrick Dunleavy

Professor of Political Science and Public Policy and Chair, LSE Public Policy Group, London School of Economics and Political Science (LSE)

Helen Margetts

Professor of Political Science and Director, School of Public Policy, University College London (UCL)

Simon Bastow

Research Fellow, School of Public Policy UCL, and LSE Public Policy Group

Ruth Callaghan

Researcher, LSE Public Policy Group

Hala Yared

Researcher, School of Public Policy, UCL

REFERENCES

Academic

'Government on the Web', (1999) Report commissioned by the National Audit Office (HC 87)

Margetts H, (1999) Information Technology in Government: Britain and America, Routledge, London

Margetts H and Dunleavy P, (2002) Cultural Barriers to E-government, Published by the National Audit Office HC 704-III

Dunleavy P, Margetts H, Bastow S, Tinkler J, and Yared H (2001) 'Policy Learning and Public Sector Information Technology: Contractual and E-Government Changes in the UK, Australia, and New Zealand' Paper presented at the Annual Conference of the American Political Science Association 2001, 28 August -1 September, Hilton Hotel, San Francisco, US

Dunleavy P and Margetts H (2000) 'The Advent of Digital Government: Public Bureaucracy and the State in the Internet Age' Paper presented at the Annual Conference of the American Political Science Association 2000, 4th September, Omni Shoreham Hotel, Washington, US

Dunleavy P, Margetts H, Bastow S, and Tinkler J (2000) 'The Advent of a Digital State and Government-Business Relations' Paper presented at the Annual Conference of the Political Science Association 2000, 10-13 April, London School of Economics and Political Science, London, UK

Central Government

Modernising Government White Paper (March 1999)

Electronic Communications Act 2000

'E-communications@its.best.uk' published by Performance and Innovation Unit (September 1999)

'Wiring It Up' published by Cabinet Office (PIU) (January 2000)

'E-government strategy framework for public services in the Information Age' published by Cabinet Office (April 2000)

‘Successful IT: Modernising government in action. A review of major government IT projects’ published by Cabinet Office (May 2000)

‘Citizens First’ published by Cabinet Office (September 2000)

‘E-government services for the 21st century’ published by Cabinet Office (PIU) (September 2000)

‘E-government authentication framework’ published by Cabinet Office (OEE) (December 2000)

‘Ukonline.gov.uk: Connecting you with government information and services’ published by Cabinet Office (February 2001)

‘International Benchmarking Study’ published by Cabinet Office (April 2001) available at <http://www.e-envoy.gov.uk>

‘E-government meta-data framework’ published by Cabinet Office (May 2001)

‘E-communications at work’ published by Cabinet Office (July 2001)

‘Electronic communications at work: what you need to know’ Version 2 published by Cabinet Office (OEE) (July 2001)

‘Electronic Records Management Framework’ published by Cabinet Office (August 2001)

‘E-government interoperability framework – Version 3’ published by Cabinet Office (November 2001)

‘Guidelines for UK government websites: Framework for senior managers’ published by Cabinet Office (November 2001)

‘E-services development framework’ published by Cabinet Office (December 2001)

HM Customs and Excise

‘National Business Needs Survey 2000’ published by HM Customs and Excise (2000)

‘HM Customs and Excise e-business strategy Version 2’ published by HM Customs and Excise (July 2001)

‘HM Customs and Excise Departmental Investment Strategy’ published by HM Customs and Excise (2001)

Department of Transport, Local Government, and the Regions

‘Modern Local Government in Touch with the People’ published by Department of Environment, Transport and the Regions (July 1998)

‘Implementing E-government – Guidelines for Local Government’ published by Department of Environment, Transport and the Regions (April 2000)

DETR e-business strategy’ (October 2000)

‘Delivering Local Government Online: Milestones and Resources for the 2005 target’ published by Department of Environment, Transport and Regions (DETR) (February 2001)

‘Promoting E-government – Best Practice in Local Authorities’ published by Department of Environment, Transport and the Regions (February 2001)

‘Delivering Local Government Online: Guidelines for preparing Implementing Electronic Government statements’ published by Department of Environment, Transport and the Regions (March 2001)

‘Detailed National E-Local Government Strategy’ published by Department of Environment, Transport, and the Regions (September 2001)

‘Local Targets for Electronic Service Delivery: Central Local Liaison Group’ published by Department of Environment, Transport and the Regions (2001)

‘Strong Local Leadership – Quality Public Services’ published by Department of Transport, Local Government and the Regions (December 2001)

Other

‘Better Connected 2000, 2001,2002’ report published by SOCITM available at <http://www.socitm.gov.uk>

‘2000 Spending Review Public Service Agreements White Paper’ published by HM Treasury (available at <http://www.hm-treasury.gov.uk>

‘Closing the Digital Divide: Information and Communication Technologies in deprived areas’ published by Department of Trade and Industry (February 2000)

‘Business in the Information Age: International Benchmarking Study’ published by DTI in conjunction with UK Online for Business campaign

‘How to decide to use the Internet to deliver government programmes and services’ published by Australian National Audit Office (ANAO) (April 2001)